Guerrillas Use Artillery, Mortar Pieces in Effort to Prevent Reinforcement of Konitsa Garrison by Officials; 95 Persons Reported Killed

Athens, Dec. 27 (AP)—Fighting between the Greek army and Communist guerrilla units continued in the Konitsa-Ioannina region of northwestern Greece today as the government reportedly rushed plans for outlawing the Communist Party.

Greek troops, fighting up the main highway toward Ioannina, made contact with guerrillas holding the vital Boudouzi bridge in the Konitsa area, key to the main communications line from Ioannina.

Guerrilla forces meanwhile, were reported employing artillery and mortars extensively in an effort to prevent any reinforcement of the Konitsa garrison which already has been attacked three times and is in a state of semi-siege.

Ulsterville Man Fatally Injured When Hit by Car

Charles Newman, 64, Died Instantly; Coroner Gives Verdict; No Arrest

Charles Newman, 64, of Ulsterville was instantly killed Friday when he was struck by a car being operated by Frederick Ward, 29, of 213 Washington street, Newburgh, on Route 52 about two miles west of Pine Bush.

State Police at Wurtsboro reported that Newman was walking "diagonally" across the road when the car, owned by Cora Ward of Middletown, Route 1, Newburgh, caught up to Newman and struck him. Newman was walking toward the car and struck the pedestrian. The operator attempted to avoid the man but it was snowing hard at the time and the highway was covered with snow and he was unable to avoid the man. Ward was on route to Pine Bush at the time. Newman was struck down from behind. Newman is survived by his wife who resides at Ulsterville.

Night Out Not Enjoyed

Thousands Spend the Night in Trains and Snow-Banked Cars

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Thousands of residents of the metropolitan area had a night out last night but even those with a bit of the playboy in them didn't relish the experience.

They spent the night huddled together in cold railroad trains stalled in the suburbs because of the record 25.8-inch snowfall, packed into the Terminal Building at La Guardia field, or nearly buried in snow banks into which automobiles skidded.

The Long Island Railroad this morning began a census of its trains, attempting to trace several which left Pennsylvania Station last night and had not yet arrived at their destinations.

Four hundred passengers who left Penn station at 10 o'clock last night on a 20-minute trip to Flushing, Queens, arrived within sight of the main street, Flushing station after 8 a. m. today.

Most of the passengers, who had been packed in seven cars, negotiated the last three blocks on foot—those who wouldn't walk were, at last reports, still enroute to Flushing.

Another Long Island train was maneuvered somewhere between Baldwin and Rockville Center and still others were reported stalled between Floral Park and Hempstead and near Valley Stream.

Three plane loads of outboard passengers spent the night at the Domestic Air Terminal at La Guardia field when their flights were cancelled. Airport roads were impassable and they could not be taken to hotels.

Hundreds of airline employees were stranded at the Independent subway station in Jackson Heights, Queens, when buses were unable to make the trip to the airport but they were picked up later by airline trucks.

Plan New Assault

Rome, Dec. 27 (AP)—Communists mobilized their forces throughout Italy today for a new assault on Premier Alcide de Gasperi's government. Today's initial meeting of the Communist-led "Congress of Congresses" brings together executive bodies elected in recent congresses which have made plans for revolutionary movements. It follows two months of almost incessant Communist-inspired violence and strikes.

Governor Is For Longer Rent Check

Commercial, Business Law Affecting New York Also Would Be Continued

Will Study Ruling Dewey Holds Parley With Stephens; to Be Reviewed

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—Governor Dewey called today for continuation of federal rent controls for another year and said he would recommend extension of New York's standby residential rent law until mid-1949.

He also will ask the 1948 legislature to continue for another year "in some form" the state commercial and business rent controls which affect New York city only.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, indicated the joint legislative committee on rents would consider higher commercial and business rent ceilings.

Referring to the federal residential rent control law which expires March 1, Dewey said at a news conference: "I am convinced that continuation of federal rent controls for another year is necessary and desirable in view of the continuing shortage of rental housing."

"I earnestly hope the Congress will pass the necessary legislation before March 1 when the present law expires."

The state residential rent law, operative only in the event all federal regulation ends, expires next June 30. The commercial and business statutes, now in effect, expire the same time. Dewey said he would ask a one-year extension of all three.

"New York state should also continue to protect its people in the event of failure of federal legislation as we did in 1946 when the federal law expired temporarily."

"I will recommend extension of our residential rent control law at the forthcoming session of the legislature for another year until July 1, 1949."

Dewey said he had conferred with Assemblyman D. Malory Stephens, chairman of the joint legislative committee on rents.

The joint committee will study the situation as well as a recent court decision holding garages subject to the law.

The statutes freeze commercial rents at no more than 15 per cent over the March 1, 1943, level and business rents at no more than 15 per cent.

No Action Expected On Police Vacancy

Commissioner Says Board Will Wait Until After January 1

A member of the Board of Police Commissioners told The Freeman this morning no action is expected on naming a successor to the Police Chief Ernest A. Boss "until after the new mayor takes office."

Chief Boss died Wednesday at Kingston Hospital. His funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"It would be the best policy," the commissioner said, "to wait until the new administration takes office. So far as I know no action in naming a successor is expected before January 1. Anyway the department is in the hands of a capable man in the meantime."

The commissioner referred to Captain Raymond Van Buren, who is acting chief and was named after Chief Boss was placed in the hospital. Assisting Acting Chief Van Buren are Lieutenants William Roedel and William Leonard.

New Yorkers, Stunned by Snowfall, Dig City Out; Officials Hold Emergency Talk; Kingston, County Get 15-Inch Blanket

Snow Crews Are Kept Busy by 20-Hour Storm; Central Trains Use West Shore

City Buses Quit Vehicles Are Recalled Friday at 6:30; Will Use Snow Loaders

Upwards of 15 inches of snow blanketed Kingston and Ulster county this morning after a steady snowfall lasting more than 20 hours. Reports from throughout the county disclose that railroad and bus traffic was seriously delayed and most business and social functions in this city were canceled Friday night because of the storm.

New York Central's east and west-bound trains were routed on the West Shore Division through Kingston from an early hour this morning until 11 a. m., when traffic was restored on the main line on the east shore of the Hudson. Trains ran from four to six hours late, the track supervisor in Kingston reported.

The 20th Century Limited from Chicago to New York arrived in Albany at 8:30 this morning, nearly 12 hours late, the Associated Press reported.

One-Way Traffic Automobile traffic on Route 9-W was open, although one-way traffic was maintained in some places, the State Police reported.

On the other side of the river, traffic on Route 9 and all parkways into New York city were closed at Poughkeepsie.

In Kingston, the Kingston City Transportation Corporation officials recalled all buses at 6 p. m. Friday, and all buses were in the garage by 6:30 o'clock. Bus routes were resumed, however, at the usual hour of 6 a. m. today.

Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of the Kingston Board of Public Works, said this morning that a crew had been plowing continuously since 12 noon yesterday.

They were relieved at 9 a. m. today, and a fresh crew employed. At 11 p. m. today the work of snow removal from the business sections of the city will be begun, he said.

All ash collections for Friday were canceled, and the regular Friday routes will be collected tomorrow, Sunday, Steuding announced.

Almost all stores in Kingston, scheduled to remain open on Friday night until 9 p. m., were closed between 6 and 6:30 p. m.

Taxicabs Suspend Many of the city's taxi companies were forced to suspend or interrupt service during the night. Perry's Cab Company reported today that they maintained service all night, but Ross's Taxi Service reported they closed at 6 p. m. instead of their usual 1 a. m. closing time, and Colonial Cab Service suspended their service at about 6 p. m., to resume at 10 p. m., from which time they continued all night.

In response to a radio appeal broadcast Friday, 65 men reported at the West Shore Railroad station in Kingston to be sent to Weehawken for work on clearing the tracks of snow. An additional 50 men were employed at the Kingston yard all night, railroad supervisors said.

At noon today, train service on all lines had been restored, the track supervisor said.

County Roads Open With the exception of the Ellen-ville-Walker Valley route over Cragmoor and the Minnewaska Trail all county roads were open to traffic this morning and the two closed routes were expected to be open by noon, it was reported from the County Highway Department garage this morning.

Little drifting aided in the work of clearing the highways of snow. The Highway Department reported that there has been some drifting but generally it was possible to keep routes open to traffic although some of the routes in southern Ulster had to be plowed four or five times to keep them open.

The storm was general throughout the county with the heaviest snowfall in the lower portions. At Cragmoor two feet of snow was being reported by operators of plows and in the Wallkill area from fifteen to eighteen inches of snow was reported.

In the Catskill Mountain area and throughout the mountain area of Shandaken the snowfall was reported considerably less than in southern Ulster. Route 9-W was

Eddyville, Man Injured as Result of Collision at East Chester and Flatbush Avenue

A milk truck and automobile collided at the intersection of East Chester street and Flatbush avenue shortly before 4 p. m. Friday, causing injury to the driver of the car, police reported.

Kenneth Fleck, 33, of Eddyville, was taken to Kingston Hospital in Corper's ambulance with possible fracture of ribs, police said. He is in apparently good condition today, hospital authorities reported, but the result of X-rays taken have not been determined.

According to the police said, the truck was the driver of a car proceeding toward Kingston on Route 32, which was struck by a Brock-way truck, driven toward Kingston on Route 9-W. The truck is owned by Mose Harris of Fultonville, and driven by Joseph Gesehler of 33 Henry street, the police said.

The reports of damage ran into untold millions, with most of the coconut and sugar crops ruined in Laguna province, 80 per cent of the buildings gone at Santa Cruz and 500 houses destroyed at Catbalogan, capital of Samar.

Normal air schedules were expected to be restored by Monday.

Several ships delayed by the storm, including the U. S. Army transport General Meigs, with 1,361 passengers, arrived today.

The East Asiatic Company reported the rescue of Kina survivors, including three American women, all employees of the U. S. Army Department, who were traveling from Shanghai to the Far East and to Europe.

Report Is Made The company, agents for the Kina, made the report after an exchange of messages with the Kina, Samur, Sakke, anchored at Calbayog, Samar Island. The Bakke earlier had erroneously reported that all but five aboard the Kina had reached shore, then messaged a correction.

Frank Kenna Dies At New Haven Hospital

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 27 (AP)—Frank Kenna, 73, businessman and lawyer whose hobby was helping small-businessmen get a start, died last night of coronary thrombosis at the hospital of St. Raphael.

At the time of his death, Kenna was president and treasurer of the Marlin Firearms Corp., the Marlin Industrial Division, Inc., the Marlin Razor Blade Company, and the Marlin Gun Works, the Official Bulletin and the L. C. Smith Gun Co. of Fulton, N. Y. He also was a director and vice president of the American Bank and Trust Company here, of which he was a founder.

Kenna, a native of New Haven, was stricken two days before Thanksgiving. He spent Christmas with his family and returned to the hospital Friday morning.

Three years ago he introduced his "Kenna plan" for the establishment of returning war veterans in businesses of their own. Kenna expressed the opinion that one out of every five men was qualified to run his own business.

May Lead to Strike New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—A new proposal was made yesterday by employers by the Licensed Embalmers Union of Greater New York in the dispute which threatens to lead to a January 1 strike of the union's 528 members who take care of nearly all the 200 funerals conducted daily in New York city and parts of Westchester and Nassau county, the union said.

John J. Dowell, business representative of the union, said he told George Goodstein, counsel for the employers group, the Metropolitan Funeral Directors Association, that the union would accept $67.50 for a 48-hour week, rather than the last employer proposal of $70 for a 54-hour week.

Mrs. Kenna Showed 'Em Nice, France, Dec. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Henriette Kenna, who presented herself naked at a beauty contest here, drew a suspended fine yesterday. The judge carefully examined a picture of her in her birthday suit after her attorney pleaded she was "a work of art."

Manila Death Toll Is 49 From Savage Typhoon

Days May Pass Before Complete Check Is Possible by Officials

Manila, Dec. 27 (AP)—The toll of dead and missing—including 32 of the 61 persons who were aboard the sunk motorship Kina—stood at 49 tonight as the Philippines mopped up after its worst December typhoon in three decades.

Twenty-nine of those aboard the Kina, a Danish ship which sank in Samar Sea after grounding during the typhoon Christmas night, were reported safe. There was no word of the other 32, who attempted to ride out the storm in lifeboats and on pieces of wreckage.

Press reports listed 11 killed at Laguna, where an entire family was blown into Laguna bay with their house; five in Manila and one in Cavite.

There was no word of casualties in other sections traversed by the 120-mile-an-hour storm, but communications still were so disrupted that days may pass before a complete check is possible.

The reports of damage ran into untold millions, with most of the coconut and sugar crops ruined in Laguna province, 80 per cent of the buildings gone at Santa Cruz and 500 houses destroyed at Catbalogan, capital of Samar.

Another Trading List Is Promised

Announcement May Bring to Light 71 Public Jobholders

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Officials of the Agriculture Department said today they hope to include in their next public listing of commodity traders the names of 71 federal, state and local jobholders who have been speculating in wheat. It may be ready next week.

A new list of 1,240 persons active in wheat futures in Chicago on April 30, 1945, was made available last night but like the 711 names given out earlier in the week it provided no sensation for Congressional investigators.

Out of the total of 1,935 names the only one recognized as a government official has been Edwin W. Pauley, special assistant to the secretary of the army, who already had disclosed his trading activities at a hearing of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Fauley said he had something less than a million dollars in commodities when he took the

Girl, Brother Die When House Burns

Milford, Del., Dec. 27 (AP)—A five-year-old girl and her four-year-old brother burned to death after their mother discovered a blaze in their home and unintentionally locked the front door behind her as she ran for help, Coroner W. L. Conway said.

Conway said Mrs. Willard E. Wyatt told him she was taking a nap yesterday with her two children, Edna Mae and Willard E. Jr., when she smelled smoke and went downstairs to investigate.

Finding the kitchen in flames, Conway said Mrs. Wyatt told him she ran from the house shouting for help. The front door locked behind her and neighbors together with firemen were unable to force their way into the burning house in time to save the children.

Storm Surpasses That of '88 as Far as Depth; O'Dwyer Is on Way East

36 Persons Die

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—The world's greatest city and its more than 8,000,000 inhabitants were buried under the heaviest snowfall in New York history today as thousands of men worked to free its streets and transportation system from the icy tentacles of the storm.

High ranking police officials and city commissioners went into emergency session this morning to plan measures to cope with storm-induced problems of movement of food and other essentials through the snow-blocked streets.

The record 25.8 inch snow paralyzed much of the city's transport and virtually erased traffic from its normally teeming streets.

Surpassing the 20.9-inch downfall left by the famous blizzard of 1888, the storm swept in with surprise fury early yesterday, blotted the sun with an average hourly fall of 1.8 inches and ended officially 15 hours and 45 minutes later. More than three inches swirled down between 3 and 4 p. m.

36 Deaths Reported It left deep snow deposits and a death toll of at least 36 in the storm belt which embraced parts of New England, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and south-eastern New York and extended south to include Washington, D. C. New York counted 12 dead and New Jersey six, most of them attributable to over-exertion in battling the giant drifts.

Connecticut reported five deaths, Pennsylvania 2, Massachusetts 3, Rhode Island 2 and New Hampshire 2.

New York Mayor William O'Dwyer, cutting short a vacation at El Centro, Calif., boarded a plane at Los Angeles today to return to Manhattan. It was reported city crews will clear runways for his scheduled 6:40 p. m. landing at La Guardia Field.

Before departing from Los Angeles airport, O'Dwyer told newsmen: "I just love my weather here," then he added, with a smile, "We were dreaming of a white Christmas and we got a nightmare."

The storm centered in the metropolitan area.

Technically not a blizzard since it was unaccompanied by high winds and near-zero temperatures, the snowfall wrought sufficient havoc during the day to insure itself a legendary role in New York weather history.

It slowed and in some cases stopped railroad transportation. Virtually all bus lines, interstate and local, were brought to a dead standstill.

Nearly all transient harbor craft either dropped anchor in the snow curtain or remained tied fast to their piers, while ferry boats, a common sight of the city, were hoisted hoarsely through the pelting flakes, 10 minutes to a half hour behind schedule.

The city's subway and elevated lines lagged well behind schedule and home-bound throngs, as a result, jammed their terminals.

The Hudson tube, which connects this city to New Jersey points via the tunnels under the Hudson river, the ferry houses and rail and bus stations were filled to overflowing and at one time the situation grew so grave additional policemen were assigned to handle the anxious—and often stranded—crows.

The city's usually congested streets still were congested—but by lines of stalled automobiles, buses and trucks, bumper to bumper, stretching block after block. Other streets, piled high with drifts, were as deserted as country lanes.

The city's gala night club life was stifled by the transportation snarl. At midnight only eight patrons were present at the usually noisy and gay Monte Carlo Club while the headwater at the swank Stork Club said business was "knocked out." Similar scenes were the rule in most of the other night spots.

Broadway theatres and motion picture houses reported business off from 25 to 75 per cent and Broadway itself was virtually lifeless.

Tennis enthusiasts, however, braved the wintry blasts to turn out some 15,000-strong for the Bobby Riggs-Jack Kramer professional match in Madison Square Garden.

Police cars floundered through the snow with orders to post ventresome motorists on the few avenues still open to traffic. The emergency remained so

They may sign, however, only in the districts in which they are authorized to act officially, except that peace justices and town councilmen may perform the service anywhere in their county. BRIDE AND GROOM SHOULD NOT LEAVE UNNOTICED

I could hardly imagine a wedding question that I never have answered before. This, however, is one: "My sister was married recently and after she threw her bouquet to her attendants, she and the groom, quietly slipped away from the wedding reception. Some of the guests were quite put out about this and think they should have come back and said good-bye to their friends after they changed into their going-away clothes. I never have heard of this before and would appreciate your opinion."

Squeeze Brings In Spade Grand Slam

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

The original Welsh "rabbit" was said to be an improvised solace for a weary hunter who failed to bring home the hare. Others contend it should be called "rabbit" by reason of its unique flavor. Whether you say rabbit or rabbit, you can count on this favorite cheese delicacy as a thrifty mainstay. One pound of yellow cheese and a cup of beer or milk are the main ingredients for six generous helpings.

Welsh Rabbit (Serves 6)
Four cups (1 pound) grated American cheese, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup beer or milk, 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten, 6 slices hot toast, dash paprika.
Put grated cheese and butter in top of double boiler and melt slowly. When about 3/4 of the cheese is melted add 1/2 cup of beer or milk slowly and cook until all cheese is melted, stirring constantly. Stir remaining 1/2 cup of beer or milk into egg yolks; add slowly to the cheese mixture, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Serve at once on slices of toast and sprinkle with paprika.

If you use beer, as always when cooking with beer, open the bottle or can and allow to come to room temperature before adding. Whether you use a double boiler or chafing dish be sure to let your Welsh rabbit come to a boil slowly. Remove from the fire and serve immediately.

Here's another sturdy protein dish that has a novel list of ingredients.
Baked Spanish Eggs (Serves 6)
Three tablespoons chopped onion, 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 cup margarine, 6 eggs, 1/4 cup grated cheese, 12 tablespoons beer or milk, paprika.
Fry onion and green pepper in butter or margarine to a light brown. Pour into a shallow baking dish. Open eggs onto this with or without broken yolks. Mix bread crumbs with cheese and sprinkle over eggs. Pour two tablespoons beer or milk over each egg. Sprinkle with paprika and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until eggs are set but not hard (about 12 minutes). Serve in baking dish.

MONDAY'S MENU
BREAKFAST: Stewed dried fruit, ready-to-eat cereal, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Welsh rabbit on toast, grapefruit, orange and banana cup, tea, milk.
DINNER: Spanish eggs, country fried potatoes, stewed tomatoes, poppy seed rolls, butter or fortified margarine, cole slaw, oatmeal cookies, coffee, milk.

Just Let It Snow

Northboro, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP)—Northboro was doing what many New Englanders wanted to do today—let it snow. The town couldn't do anything about it, according to Selectman John Allen. There are no funds to clear snow in the town of 3,000.

Storm Sidelights

Mountain, officials of Palisades Interstate Park were as joyful about the snow as local street cleaners were glum. They predicted record crowds for winter sports.

The liner Queen Mary, some of whose passengers brought their luggage to the pier aboard sleds, finally sailed at 4:25 a. m. today after the storm had delayed her departure nearly 12 hours. A horse-drawn sleigh brought two passengers from the Savoy Plaza Hotel. Another went aboard at 10 p. m. last night after a trip from North Arlington, N. J., that began at 11:45 a. m. and included a seven-mile trek through snow—with luggage.

At one time officials of bus companies reported 2,000 vehicles "lost," their whereabouts temporarily unknown.

And rail lines weren't only announcing "delayed arrivals"; they were announcing "delayed departures" from the crowded terminals.

Many outlying stations were filled with commuters who found bus service suspended between the stations and their homes. In Long Island sections of the city, theaters were opened to house about 2,200 persons overnight.

Two detectives had nearly dug out their snow-bound car before discovering it was the wrong car.

Reporter Walter Arm was unable to get to the hospital to see the new daughter born yesterday.

Debutantes carried party dresses to the big hotel parties, changing after they arrived.

Caryl Beckwith, 31, senior observer for the Weather Bureau, used her two-foot stick to measure the snow depth in Battery Park until 7 p. m.—then she had to use a yardstick.

A Brooklyn housewife who had lost her house keys called police to help her get in her home. They forced the door for her—when they arrived two hours later.

kept open and was reported "not bad" today.

The Highway Department reported that all routes had been opened by the heavy fall of snow and some drifting had closed sections during the night for short periods. All were reopened except the Minnewaska and Cragmoor routes.

It was reported all routes would be opened by noon to a "limited width" and the work of widening out the roads would be continued Sunday until all routes were opened to normal width.

Vehicles Are Stalled

In some places the work of plowing was hampered by vehicles stalled in the snow. There was, however, only one bad tie-up that in the Plattekill section where a number of large trucks and milk-tankers became mired in the drifts and slowed up the plowing operations.

Through bus service was suspended late Friday afternoon due to the snow conditions in the metropolitan area. Local bus lines continued to operate Friday afternoon and were operating close to schedule this morning.

The Adirondack Lines suspended through service after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon because of the snow within a five-mile area of the metropolitan district where conditions were described as "very bad." At the local terminal it was stated that through service would not be resumed until the conditions in and about New York improved. Local service was being operated at close to schedule to Glens Falls, Saugerties, Rosendale and other areas served by the line.

Greyhound reported its through service had been suspended last night and would not be resumed until this afternoon. It was expected that service would be resumed at 3:20 o'clock and full operation of the highway condition permitted.

At the Uptown Bus Terminal on Crown street it was stated that local service had continued to operate Friday "close to schedule" and that buses for Rosendale, Saugerties, Ellenville, Woodstock, New Paltz, Pine Hill and other local points had not been suspended and were running close to schedule today.

The Pine Hill bus line reported that buses had continued to operate Friday near schedule and that the buses were operating today with some delay. Delays up to a half hour had been experienced and in one instance there had been a delay because of the breakdown of one of the buses.

State Police were being swamped with inquiries as to highway conditions throughout the state. Locally there were no serious accidents reported due to the storm and this morning State Police reported main roads in this area were open but travel "bad" and it was suggested that all traffic not absolutely necessary keep off highways until the roads were fully opened.

"Most roads are open two lanes wide and there is some drifting in places," was the report from Lake Katonah. The Parkway was open through without much difficulty, but travel nearer the metropolitan area was reported still difficult and some Long Island routes were still closed. Sullivan county reported all main highways open and the report to the Troopers was that the Parkways were open in most cases two lanes wide but there was delay due to snow removal operations.

Buy Most of Night

In Woodstock, town plows were working until an early hour this morning, and many of the town officials and citizens volunteered help in removing the snow.

A Town Board meeting held last night in Woodstock was adjourned after discussing though all necessary business, and the board members worked with the snow removal crews. Included among the volunteers were Supervisor Kenneth Wilson, School Principal Walter S. Van Wagenen, Justice of the Peace Joseph Ritzsma, and Fred Trippe, president of the fish and game club.

The Woodstock Garage opened at 12 midnight to supply the trucks with gasoline and service, and Deane's restaurant remained open past its usual closing time of 12 midnight to provide coffee for the men.

Car Fire Reported

The Woodstock Fire Department responded to a call of fire late Friday night, when a new car owned by Howard Barnes became stuck in a snow drift at Bearsville, and the engine became ignited when he tried to free the car, the firemen reported.

Benjamin DeGraff, town supervisor, said the car was busy all night directing the work of snow removal.

Paul Van Wagenen, 14, Freeman carrier in Woodstock, aided by his two younger brothers, Carl and Allen, succeeded in delivering all his papers Friday night, in spite of the fact the Freeman's Woodstock correspondent reported the boys worked from 4 p. m. until after 9 p. m.

The brokers are required to supply the information not later than January 10.

the line expected to provide service on all branches in New York city during the morning rush hours today.

Trains operated from Jamaica last night to Ronkonkoma, Greenport, Port Jefferson, Oyster Bay, Babylon, Freeport, Flamingo Park, Long Beach and Montauk, the spokesman said.

He added that "virtually all" eastbound trains stalled in electrified territory had been moved by midnight and that three electric westbound trains bogged down at Bayside and Little Neck were moved at 12:18 a. m.

Shuttle Service Resumed

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Long Island Railroad announced this morning that shuttle service was being resumed on some of its snow-bound lines and that relief crews were attempting to reach stalled trains on which some passengers have been marooned during the night.

A spokesman for the railroad said headquarters had been advised of stalled trains in some areas including that section between Floral Park and Hempstead, Baldwin and Freeport, and possibly around Valley Stream.

Some of the trains—electrically operated and which failed because contact with the third rail was lost—had been stalled late Friday. Others bogged down during the night.

Steam trains were being used this morning instead of electric locomotives both in the various relief operations and also in the shuttle service being established. The railroads said some trains were operating from New York and Brooklyn to various Long Island points, while shuttle schedules were announced for Long Island points into the city.

Albany Digs Out

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—The capitol district was plowing out from under 18 inches of snow today as the weather bureau reported New York city and the length of the Hudson valley yesterday promised to subside into light showers.

The weather bureau said "moderate to heavy" snowfalls in eastern New York would lessen as the day wore on. The metropolitan area already had a record 25.8 inches.

One death was attributed to the storm tonight, Arthur Della, 60, of Saratoga Lake collapsed after shoveling snow, police reported.

Bus and air lines cancelled flights to New England and New York, and westbound trains were running late.

About 11 inches of Albany's snow fell yesterday. Buffalo and Rochester had but a "trace" of snow, and Syracuse had two inches. New snow at Glens Falls brought the total on the ground to 11 inches. Ticonderoga and Fort Plain reported 10 and Utica, eight.

Temperatures, generally in the 20s today, were expected to drop tonight and Sunday.

Fears Return to Georgia Chain Gang

"Do anything you want with me, but don't send me back. They kill you down there" was the plea Chester Owens, left, above, made to Racine, Wis., police. He was talking about the Georgia chain gang from which he escaped over a year ago. He is pictured after his arrest in Racine, where, with his 15-year-old wife, right, he had been living since July. She is expecting a baby. Racine officials are holding Owens until they learn if he still is wanted in Georgia.

great that officials announced at city hall late last night that the Mayor's Emergency Board has arranged to meet today to determine steps to meet the crisis.

Thousands of commuters sought hotel rooms in the city overnight or resigned themselves to sleeping at terminals.

Fuel Shortage Seen

A possible shortage of fuel was seen by coal and oil dealers who urged householders with sufficient fuel for at least five days not to ask further deliveries until streets are cleared. Food deliveries, which were expected to be adequate.

All available firemen were assigned to round-the-clock duty and Fire Commissioner Frank J. Quayle said last night that the city faced the "gravest emergency" in the history of the fire department.

"Our streets are practically impassable," he said, "which reached 30 miles, an hour during the afternoon, began shifting the dry snow into new drifts that further clogged surface transportation."

Stalled cars, left in the fender-deep snow, blocked main highways and caused a traffic jam in the suburban vehicular traffic.

The Pulaski Skyway and U. S. Highway No. 1 and the Newark Turnpike, main traffic arteries south from New York were impassable.

The eastbound tube of the Lincoln Tunnel was closed to traffic for two hours as the result of a minor accident at its entrance.

The burden of paying for the huge snow removal job was of particular concern to city officials. They estimated the bill might come to between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000. The amount appropriated for snow removal for the entire winter was $1,285,688, and of this $703,000 had been earmarked to pay for wages and materials.

The Pennsylvania Railroad reported one or two hour delays in departures of trains to the west and south last night and 30-minute delays in service to New Jersey points. Incoming trains were forced to reduce speed as they entered the storm area.

The scheduled departure of the Jefferson, scheduled to depart at 6:15 p. m., did not leave until 10 p. m. while the Broadway Limited to Chicago, due to leave at 6 p. m., left at 7:21 p. m.

Trains Are Late

The New York, New Haven and Hartford said at 2 a. m. today that trains from Boston and other New England points were arriving late and that Parkways were open also delayed outbound trains.

The road reported commuter service to suburban Westchester county and Connecticut nearly normal early today, with trains departing at half-hour intervals.

Long distance trains leaving the New York Central's terminal here last night pulled out four or more hours late. The 20th Century Limited, scheduled to leave at 6:01 a. m. for Chicago at 10:03 and the Water Level Limited, also to Chicago, was about seven hours late.

The Long Island Railroad, private long city-to-island commuter, reported several electric trains stalled late in the day. Steam and diesel engines were dispatched to move them.

Early in the evening, throngs of commuters at the Long Island's Manhattan terminals were advised by the stationmaster that all operations of the line had been halted but officials said later the information was in error and that only certain branches were affected.

Snow-choked runways grounded all planes, further darkening the transportation picture.

A board of transportation officials said newspapers had been given permission to use subway and elevated lines for routing papers to delivery points.

Milk Is Plentiful

Two of the city's largest milk companies, Sheffield Farms and Borden, reported ample supplies of milk on hand but said deliveries necessarily would be curtailed for the time being.

In a midnight summary of operations since 6 p. m., the Long Island Railroad reported eight trains had moved from New York to Jamaica and 17 had moved eastward from Jamaica to Long Island points.

During the six-hour period, two trains reached Jamaica from Montauk.

No Comparison Says President of 'Blizzard of '88'

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Veterans of "the blizzard of '88" will have to contend with a new generation of New Yorkers—the veterans of "the big snow of '47."

But the idea that the two storms can be compared leaves some of the oldtimers cold.

"No comparison," a frigidly commented Walter F. Gardner of Jersey City, N. J., president of the "Blizzard Men of 1888."

The newtimers may argue hotly that yesterday's 25.8-inch snowfall put the frost on all previous records, including '88's measly 20.9-inch fall.

But such old blizzard men as 74-year-old Augustus Post, a past president of the group that meets each March 12 to give the '88 blizzards its due, will point out that yesterday's storm lacked the "hurricane-like" winds of the earlier storm, and that not even the weatherman refers to such a mild temperatured storm as yesterday's as a blizzard.

"The new snow," Post said last night, was "on both sides of the street; the other time, we got 40 inches on one side and none on the other." Moreover, people yesterday weren't walking home across a frozen East river as they did 59 years ago.

In '83, Post donned barrel staves as snow shoes and supplied the family harder through a second day of snow. For six days the snow hid a stranded grocery wagon in front of his house.

But Post wouldn't entirely belittle the '47 storm, either; he merrily admitted he was snowbound last night at the home of a sister on a Long Island branch, and his New York city home.

After the two-day storm in 1888, Post said, "the whole city was cut off from the rest of the world for three days. The only way to get a message out of New York city was by cable to London, and thence back to Boston."

At the time, the New York Tribune reported that "the city simply was knocked out" by a furious, blinding gale that made exposure to it an exquisite torture.

Emerson Pays Fine

Carson Emerson, of St. Remy, was fined $10 today in city court before City Judge Matthew Cahill on a charge of driving with improper license plates. The fine was paid.

Emerson was released from the county jail December 24, according to the sheriff's office, when property bail was posted for him. He is being held for the grand jury on larceny charges. The amount of bail was not announced.

Increase Is Signed

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—President Truman today signed a measure increasing by $750,000,000 the Federal Housing Administration's authority to insure new home mortgages.

and freezing" all night in cars and buses in Route 25 by a record-shattering snow storm.

Emergency crews ploughed through the drifting snow on foot, bringing coffee and food. Shelters were ready in precinct police stations to receive the refugees.

"We haven't been able to get through with heavy motor ploughs because of the stalled cars and busses," Haller said. "But we've got jeeps in there now, and we're ploughing as far as we can, and the men are going on by foot."

Haller said the fire department and Red Cross were providing packets of hot beverages and food for the marooned parties.

"We don't know just how many there are, but there are a number of busses and each of them probably has 30 persons or more in it," Haller said.

Meanwhile the Long Branch observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau said the snow reached a record depth of 30 inches there, apparently the hardest hit spot in the smothered northeast, almost double the 16.5 inches that fell in a single day during the famous blizzard of 1888.

The N. J. Bell Telephone Company reported today that more than 8,000,000 calls were placed yesterday, a record in the firm's history.

It Might Cause Uncle Joe to See the Light

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 27, 1947

The really important thing in this world is not speed, but Man himself, and the degree in which he masters his highest possibilities.

Supersonic speed is merely one of the many marvels which seem to be developing lately with unexpected success. It is, however, Man himself that must have the emphasis: Presumably he will always be operating on this planet, in a thousand ways, learning and fulfilling the purposes that have brought him here. So far, Man is the greatest mystery of all.

Seems queer for an American city to set aside a "no accidents" day when that should be the habit for the whole year.

One big wish we do have to make about driveways. If more folks who are driving just ahead of you would hold out their hand before turning suddenly into them, that would not only preserve the peace, but save the pieces.

A National Safety Council, however helpful it may prove itself to be, is not capable of that sort of eternal vigilance which is the price of safety. Governors have operating under them trained officers paid for the protection of the traveling public from itself; mayors have policemen whom they may instruct and admonish.

Pedestrians are divided into two classes—the quick and the dead.

Joe—Stebbin's wife is going to make him go in for geology.

Sam—What's that for?

Joe—She can't make him keep himself tidy, and she thinks if he is scientific, it won't be noticed.

"Men owe a lot to their wives," says a minister, and scarcely a wife has an I.O.U. as proof of claim.

Waiter—Yes, sir, we're very up to date. Everything here is cooked by electricity.

Diner—I wonder if you would mind giving this steak another shock?

"The horse you sold me last week is a fine animal, but I can't get him to hold his head up."

"Oh, it's because of his pride. He'll hold it up as soon as he's paid for."

"A rich man must employ a valet, a laundress, a secretary, a cook and a housekeeper."

"Yes—and the poor man just gets married."

Wife—John, I'm awfully disappointed. You haven't given me anything for my twenty-ninth birthday.

Husband—Twenty-ninth? You have forgotten, darling. I gave it to you last year.

Schooling is what you get at school, but education is what the rough old world gives when schooling is over.

Schatzel to Represent New York-Canada in W. I. B. C.

In The Pocket

with CHARLIE TIANO

Bagatelles:

Interesting is the fact that Jean Mickey Michaels, former New York State women's singles and all-events bowling queen, decided to take her chance in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania district in the WIBC eliminations rather than to compete against perennial hardies like Ann Sabolowski and Kingston's Rose Schatzel in New York state. It didn't matter much to Miss Michaels that she does the bulk of her bowling in New York City. . . . From here it looks like the temperamental Mickey didn't want any part of Mrs. Schatzel in the eliminations. . . . The final figures proved Mickey a smart gal indeed. . . . Although she won comfortably in New Jersey-Pennsylvania, she would have finished second in New York, 3343 to 3263. . . . Mrs. Schatzel's repeat victory is a bowling achievement of monumental significance. . . . Three of her opponents in Dallas, Texas, next April are of All-America calibre—Maxine Cruchon, of Detroit; Miss Michaels, and Phyllis Vogel, of Inglewood, Calif., the only woman bowler in the United States with a 200 average this season.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

The next convention of American Bowling Congress delegates will consider a flock of new proposals designed to streamline the game. Among the more important are the following:
1. Creation of Tournament Department so that the A.B.C. and not the host city association will have control of the annual tournament.
2. Setting a protest limit of 48 hours in tournaments. (Hudson Valley League moguls should be interested in this).
3. Awards of high score medals on a seasonal basis instead of annual basis.
4. No team to win two sets of medals in high score awards.
5. Extending the weights of pins two ounces lower and higher than present limits.
6. Allow teams to bowl in two or more city tournaments, if eligible.
7. Legalizing electric type of foul detecting device.
8. New methods to settle tie games.

Of Men and Mice:

Herman Forster, president of the New York State Conservation Council, recommends a reduction of pheasant-breeding to pre-war levels and emphasis instead on improvement of habitats and game management. . . . He also advocates the banding of all adult birds released by the State in order to learn whether more than a small percentage of such birds is harvested. . . . Robert J. Steidler, sports editor of the Buffalo Evening News, has been re-elected president of the Poughkeepsie Old-time professional basketball followers got a kick watching the Philadelphia Colored Giants cut capers Christmas Night against the Legionnaires. . . . Here was professional basketball at its best—set shooting, screening, picking off and play-making. . . . The fire alarm basketball of today gets more points but lacks the eye appeal of old pro squads like the Original Celtics, Original Renaissance and other powerhouses. . . . Glenn "Pop" Williams, 29,440, it's the same way in the 10-year A.B.C. averages, with Andy leading Joe, 204,65 to 203,79. Wilman has something to show here, with three A.B.C. titles whereas Andy has been performing consistently but not sensationally.

A Duel Between Two Greats:

Andy Varipapa and Joe Wilman, the 1-2 bowlers of the day, are only a fraction of a point apart after more than 500 games in seven years of the annual match game single of Varipapa leading 204,460 to Wilman's 204,440. It's the same way in the 10-year A.B.C. averages, with Andy leading Joe, 204,65 to 203,79. Wilman has something to show here, with three A.B.C. titles whereas Andy has been performing consistently but not sensationally.

The leaders in the past seven All-Star Tournaments are:
1. Andy Varipapa, Brooklyn . . . 546 . . . 204,460
2. Joe Wilman, Chicago . . . 525 . . . 204,440
3. Steve Naeff, Detroit . . . 525 . . . 204,440
4. Con Schwieger, Madison, Wis. . . . 480 . . . 202,146
5. Buddy Bonnar, Chicago . . . 586 . . . 202,62
6. Ned Day, West Allis, Wis. . . . 384 . . . 201,345
7. John Crimmins, Detroit . . . 355 . . . 201,324
8. Walter Ward, Cleveland . . . 550 . . . 201,361
9. Joe Norris, Chicago . . . 318 . . . 201,126
10. George Young, Detroit . . . 410 . . . 201,172

Ted Williams' .643 Was Best Slugging Percentage in A. L.

Official American League statistics revealed today exactly what everybody knew—Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox did everything but carry the water bucket in the junior league batting departments for 1947. In addition to capturing the batting crown for the third time with a mark of .343, Williams further embellished his stature by acquiring the cherished slugging mark and the runs-batted-in diadems.

Has 114 RBIs
The long-hitting Boston outfielder was the only batter to exceed the century mark in RBIs with 114, and paced the sluggers with robust 643 percentage. Williams, who has amassed 100 or more runs-batted-in for six straight years also drew 162 bases on balls, just eight shy of Babe Ruth's all-time mark, to lead this department for the fourth consecutive season. On the distasteful side of the ledger, he failed to piff a base for the second straight year, thus tying a record for fewest stolen bases by a player in 150 games or more.

DIMAGGIO Second
Joe DiMaggio was the only other regular to earn a slugging percentage of better than .300, ranking second to Williams with .532. College Cagers

In Local Games

Hartwick Cagers Gear for Battle With Muhlenberg

Oneonta, Dec. 27—Hartwick College basketballers are due to return Monday to this city from their holiday vacations to start blueprints for the Jan. 3 meeting in Allentown, Pa., with vaunted Muhlenberg.

Following their upset victory over St. Lawrence Dec. 20, achieved without the services of the 6ft. 5 inch high-scoring Jay VerCrouse, the Hartwick dribblers will move against nationally prominent Muhlenberg as overwhelming underdogs, a role they have played with regularity all season.

A top-rung team, Muhlenberg's Mules are reportedly taking the Hartwick game lightly. Coach Harold Bradley said that VerCrouse, the big center, injured in practice prior to the St. Lawrence game, would attempt to work his sprained ankle into playing shape in the pre-Muhlenberg drills. If he does not respond by game time on Jan. 3, Bradley will use the same starting outfit which dumped favored St. Lawrence. Captain Zeke Zelle, rebounding and shooting extravaganza from down the Hudson, Kingston, and his running mate, Rod Sagendorf, another G. Warren Kid, production from the Hudson city, will be moved into important roles with Zelle replacing VerCrouse at the center position and Sagendorf replacing the shifting Zelle at a guard post.

Harold Purdy of Norwich and Dick Fabozzi of Amsterdam will remain at forwards where their speed and drive on breakaways is expected to provide trouble for the Mules up front. Dick Hiffa, of New York Mills, will be the other guard. Sagendorf, a sophomore, is the only upperclassman in the potential starting lineup.

Yanks Set New Gate Record Despite Slight Slump in '47

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—The New York baseball Yankees drew 100,000 fewer regular season customers than in 1946, but that did not prevent the Yankee Stadium from setting an all-time high for attracting 3,415,597 spectators to sports events this year.

This total tops the '46 figure of 3,302,587 by 111,370, although no boxing bouts were held at the Bronx ball yard this year as compared to three last year which drew 123,587 fans. The two-year total, another record, is 6,718,544. Baseball, of course, was the major contributor once again. The Yankees drew 2,200,369 paid admissions during the regular season. Cards 12-Point Favorites Over Pitt Steelers

Chicago, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles and Chicago Cardinals held final dress rehearsals at Comiskey Park today and the rival coaches reported both squads were near peak condition for the National League Football Championship engagement tomorrow.

Jimmy Conzelmann's Cards, favored by 10-12 points, were ready with a terrific one-two scoring threat with the combination of fullback Pat Harder and halfback Charlie Trippi being in top shape at the same time for the only time this season.

Both have been handicapped with injuries throughout the campaign and never have been able to go to full steam together. Tackle Caleb Martin and Frank Ivy will be out of the Cards lineup tomorrow, but guard Buster Ramsey is ready for action after missing four games.

The Eagles have had to operate with key men on the cripple list. Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale said today that with the exception of halfback Noble Doss, who has two fractured ribs, the squad is in fine shape.
